EDITOR'S PREFACE

the, Second Edition.

पुस्तकालय
गुरुकुल कांगड़ी

The present work was undertaken with the intention of furnishing the Gujarati Public with materials for a more scientific study of the Language than was to be found in previous works of this nature. It does not assume to be always authoritative, nor are the conclusions arrived at to be accepted as final. It is rather intended as a guide to future writers, showing in many cases what ought certainly to be accepted, or to be avoided. The etymologies are, I believe, briefly but sufficiently indicated. From an ardent desire of assisting the scholar in this direction, I have long been collecting materials and making notes on points relating to the etymology of Gujarati words. The result of this labour is here offered to the public. Some of the etymologies given will, I hope, save much future discussion and research. But I cannot take leave of a work, which has closely occupied my attention during the past twenty-five years, without expressing the hope that it may prove of service not only to students of early Gujarati, or of Indian Philology, but to all who are interested in the origin, history; and development of that language, which is the common inheritance of the Gujarati-speaking peoples. It is but to be expected that, owing to the increased attention, which of late years has been given to the study of the vernacular languages, many of the conclusions at which I have arrived may require important modification or even rejection; but I nevertheless trust that the use of this work may tend to the suppression of guess-work ignoring all rules. I trust that it may at the same time strengthen the conviction that in this as in all other studies, true results are to be gained only by patient observation and reasonable inference.

In a work, which, like the present undertaking, deals with several languages, it is very difficult to secure absolute accuracy; that can only be aimed at. But we do hope that in this second edition a nearer approach has been made to that most desirable goal.

Dhanpāl (1075 A. D.) and Hemchandra (1173 A. D.), the two great Jain Pandits, have supplied the means of ascertaining the origin of several Gujarati words. The former in his work Payalachhi (पायलच्छी) written for the use of his sister, named Priyalakshmi and the latter in his several Māgadhi works have supplied the crude forms to which many modern Gujarati words may be traced. These are denoted by Dh. Des. & Hem. Des. as showing their origin.

I must avail myself of this opportunity of gratefully acknowledging my obligation to the Rev. Dr. G. P. Taylor, M. A., D. D., of the Irish Presbyterian Mission, for his kindness in reading over the final proof-sheets.

Nor can I omit to express my indebtedness to Mrs. Taylor also, who most kindly sent me a large number of words with suggestive notes, of which I have gladly availed myself.

Further I cannot close this preface without tendering my hearty thanks to Mr. Hiralal Mulchand Mehta, B.A., and Mr. Gopalrao M.Belsare,who helped me in correcting the proof-sheets; and also to the many scholars in various parts of the province who have cheered me with kind words.

If this work meets with the approval of the public,I shall consider myself amply rewarded. And, finally, may the Almighty give me opportunity to devote myself with continued vigour to the service of the Gujarati Language. True are the words of the poet Kālidās.

क्लेशः फलेन हि पुनर्नवतां विधत्ते.

PUBLISHER'S NOTICE

the Second Edition.

The first edition of this dictionary, published in 1895, having been exhausted in four years, a second edition was called for. This fact evidences the goodwill the Dictionary has secured at the hands of the public.

We are greatly indebted to the Government of Bombay, Education Department, and the Gujarat Vernacular Society for the kind support they gave us, the former by issuing circulars requesting schoolmasters to collect words not already inserted in the Dictionary, and the latter by allowing us the use of the manuscript prepared by the society, for the publication of a comprehensive Gujarati Dictionary. We have, thus,been able to embody in this second edition all words deemed worthy of admittance that were present,either in the lists supplied by the schoolmasters,or,in the manuscript in the possession of the Gujarat Vernacular Society. These additions have largely increased the contents of the present volume, on which account it has been found necessary to raise the original price by eight annas.

To The Third Edition.

Encouraged by the fitting responce, which the first and second edition of this Dictionary has met among the students and the learned public, we have ventured to publish it a third time. Hailing the demand of the public and students we have prepared this edition with becoming haste though we have taken all the care to make it every way entelligible to the students.

We have tried our best to meet with the heavy expences for paper, printing and binding, and hence we have raised the price in proportion to the other similar publications.

Lastly we cannot help expressing our sense of gratitud to correctors and the printer for the enthesiasm, zeal and assiduity which they have employed in helping us in this work.

We hope that this edition will also be welcome by the public and students as well.

Ahmedabad,
25th June. 1927.

Note--આવ·વું is often idiomatically used in Gujarātī, and may be variously rendered into English:—1. To come into or upon; to spring forth from and on—as in છોડને પાનફુલ આવ્યા છે. 2. To happen unto; to befall—as in તેને તાવ આવે છે. 3. To come unto—મારા ધ્યાનમાં એમ આવે છે. 4. To turn out; to appear in its final form or state—આ પાઘડીનો ઘાટ ઠીક આવ્યો છે. 5. To become; to have attained or reached any condition or character—ઘર પડવાની અણી ઉપર આવ્યું છે. 6. In continuous tenses આવ·વું is used as an auxiliary verb, meaning "to come up, through, or along"(a duration, course, &c.) -as in બાપ દાદાના વખતથી હું આ કામ કરતો આવ્યો છું. 7. To draw nearer towards; to approach or advance unto—વખત ઠીક આવ્યો છે. 8. To arise ; to be excited or awakened—તેને ગુસ્સો આવે છે. 9. To suit; to fit—મને અંગરખું આવતું નથી. 10 To come up to; to amount to or be equal to—આનું વજન બે તોલા જેટલું આવશે. 11. To go; to depart—આવું છું હો, બા. (આ·વવું is used in this sense of going or departure by people taking or granting leave to go, the use of જ·વું (to go) on such occasions being considered unlucky; and further આવ·વું intimates the notion of Coming again .)
